A new, cheap and easy-to-use testing kit which measures the content of k-casein B in milk both in individual samples and mass milk is now available. It is the result of many year of research carried out at international level.

The test was officially presented during the 81st Italian Agriculture and Cattle Breeding Fair that took place in Montichiari, Brescia from 13th to 15th February 2009.

Cheese makers, laboratories and dairy industry operators were highly interested in this new tool. On this occasion some meetings in the most interested areas were organized.

The latest one was in Naples, during Agrosud Fair from 20th to 22nd February. An ANARB representative was at the stand of Italialleva to present the testing kit.
